

RELATIONSHIPS 101

So you like someone ...

... now what?

As you may have noticed, there are 15 000 undergraduate males floating around campus, many of them sexy, many of them single. You may have had a fail-proof plan of attack in high school, seducing your way from mate to mate, and always with a surplus of admirers from the periphery, but university is a whole new playing field with a whole new set of rules. Gone are the days when your best friend's cousin could pass your crush a note and suddenly love would blossom—if that ever really was a good idea. The best approach is always the most direct; after all, confidence is sexy. If someone strikes your fancy, take a chance, be bold and ask that person out.

Feature by Chloé Fedio and Natalie Climenhaga

Photos by Josh Nault and Stephen Beckman